

BRISTOL NEWS
PUBLISHED IN GOODSON,
The Virginia portion of the Town.
BY
J. C. FOWLER
Is issued every Tuesday at $2.00 per annum. It is furnished to clubs of ten at $1.00 per copy.
The Editor of the News is not responsible for opinions expressed by correspondents.

JOB WORK
Executed with neatness and dispatch at New York prices.

TUESDAY, MARCH 31, 1874.

EVENT AND COMMENT

Queen Victoria. In her address to the new Parliament, says: "The delay and expenses attending the transfer of land in England has been felt to be a reproach to our law and a serious obstacle to dealing in real estate property." This sounds very much like Queen Vic is no old fogey. Call it young England if you wish!

The lady crusaders against the whiskey shops of Cleveland Ohio, have been mobbed, several of them hurt, and a policeman killed, while attempting to protect them. All of which goes to prove that woman can't rule men by ruling whiskey, though they may rule whiskey by ruling men.

Judge Dent, brother-in-law of President Grant, a Democrat, a Catholic, and at one time anti-administration candidate for Governor of Mississippi, is elected.

The Norfolk Gift Concert, goes over to the 6th of May.

The E. Tenn. Va. & G. R. R. Co., on Tuesday last, declared a semi-annual dividend of three per cent, payable on the 1st of April.

The Mayor of Cleveland Ohio, has warned the woman crusaders, that he will protect all persons in their legal rights, and will with the whole power of the city police, disperse all assemblies in front of any one place of business. We guess he will get a dead head ticket for 1874, to every bar-room in the city. But then we can't see how the Mayor could have done less than he has.

The Bald Mountain continues to below (to be interpreted to the terror of the natives). We still believe it is the spirit of old Hickory awaking from its democratic sleep of fifteen years.

The British troops undertook to carry civilization to the Kingdom of Ashan-tee, and after a triumphal entry into Coccosse, the Capital, laid the foundation of a new city, and a wealthy city and energetic people in ashes, just because King Koffie did not come in and treat.
We guess Africa has now a poor opinion of the civilization of England.

The Legislature, after slaughtering the bill to increase the jurisdiction of Justice to $200, have taken fresh hold of the matter, and it is hoped they will pass it, for certainly under the new Court bill, it is a necessity.

The Spanish government has appointed with unlimited powers, Don Jose de la Concha, Governor General of Cuba, and Porto Rico, instead of Jovellar. How is that for a Republic?
Appoint one man to rule Cuba with unlimited powers. Barrios, who battered the crew of the Virginia, has been rewarded with rank of Field Marshal.

Barham advertises in London for the construction of his transatlantic balloon. Of course if it is made in London, it will be transatlantic, but as to crossing the Atlantic in 1874, it will have to be done on board some vessel and the custom house officers will pick it quicker than did Prof.
Wise the Graphic balloon.

Lewis who arrested Webb, the surviving murderer of old man Reynolds near Knoxville, and the three Sartin who pretended to have done so, have kept Knoxville supplied with disorder since their entry within the city.
The Sartin's were shot, and Lewis was shot one of them. Then Mayor Staub has them arrested on peace warrants, unloads them of their arms and requires security in $10,000 each, to keep the peace. Lewis gives bond and the Sartin's go to jail. Lewis is acquitted of shooting Sartin, and then for shooting within the corporation that he let only shot Sartin outside the city, he would have done perfectly right. Sartin is very low, but being very mean is not dead, and means to get well. Se transit gloria Knoxville.

Rev. M. T. Lippis, the Delegate from Wise County, is in Knoxville Baptist church, and preaches nearly every Sunday for the Penitentiary convicts in Richmond, and thus while he has been sent as a delegate to the Legislature, he goes as one also to the lost sheep of Virginia.

THE DEBT OF VIRGINIA.
The Petersburg News says in a A. H. H. Stuart, will, in a few days introduce a new measure looking to federal aid in settling the debt of Va. "It sets out with the three declarations that, whereas Virginia, in past years, voluntarily gave much the largest portion of her original domain to the government of the United States; and whereas, in the late war, the State was violently dismembered and a new State carved out of her territory; and whereas portions in slaves, upon which the public debt of the States was originally based, was destroyed by the war, and our State divested of its sovereignty and reduced to a territory; therefore, resolved that the government of the United States be requested to pay over to the treasury of Virginia the federal revenues annually collected in the State from receipts on tobacco and whiskey, which, in the space of a few years (designating the number) will entirely extinguish the State debt, and at the same time, not embarrass materially the federal government.

Judge Cochran's plan is for the U. S. to endorse seventeen millions of our bonds. These we can have cashed, and with the proceeds full up to our old ones at their market value, but we presume this very measure would much exalt their market value. On last Tues-

Bristol

VOLUME IX. BRISTOL, VIRGINIA & TENNESSEE TUESDAY MARCH 31, 1874. Whole No. 447 No. 31.

INFLATION IN THE HOUSE.

After long and tedious debate before the country, the House of Representatives on the 23d voted squarely and overwhelmingly in favor of inflation, fixing the volume of Greenbacks permanently at $400,000,000. The old limit was $356,000,000, with a reserve of $44,000,000. Of the latter the Secretary of the Treasury issued 26 millions during the panic, and quite an effort was made, first to return to the 356 millions and next to adhere to the present volume of 382 millions. It has been argued by New England and the Eastern States that to increase the currency volume would leave no more in circulation, but the West and South failed to see the force of the argument, and they carried the day. It seems evident that an increase would make money more abundant and tend to weaken values. The debtor would find it easier to pay and creditor easier to collect. If such effect should follow, the inflationists will have done something towards squaring the accounts of the country and thus equalizing the distribution of money.

THE ROYAL WEDDING.

London, March 7.—The Duke of
Edinburgh has brought home his bride, the Princess Alexandra of Denmark, having made the passage
from Antwerp in a royal steam yacht.
The weather was rather rough. Her Imperial Highness is not much of a sailor, and she was very ill during
the voyage. However, during the passage of the yacht up the river she quite recovered; and by the time Gravesend
was reached she was in excellent health. Her recent indisposition, save that
her eyes were a little swollen and her cheeks rather pale. She is not handsome, when she smiles she has a
sweet and winning expression, but that is all.
She seems to be an amiable young
lady, and they say that she is very clever. I do not doubt it, but the enthusiasm which has been kindled
upon her beauty by the English correspondents at St. Petersburg are singularly absurd.

THE ROYAL WEDDING.

London, March 7.—The Duke of
Edinburgh has brought home his
bride, the Princess Alexandra of
Denmark, having made the passage
from Antwerp in a royal steam yacht.
The weather was rather rough. Her
Imperial Highness is not much of a
sailor, and she was very ill during
the voyage. However, during the passage
of the yacht up the river she quite re-
covered; and by the time Gravesend
was reached she was in excellent
health. Her recent indisposition, save that
her eyes were a little swollen and her
cheeks rather pale. She is not hand-
some, when she smiles she has a
sweet and winning expression, but that is all.
She seems to be an amiable young
lady, and they say that she is very
clever. I do not doubt it, but the en-
thusiasm which has been kindled
upon her beauty by the English cor-
respondents at St. Petersburg are sin-
gularly absurd.

THE ROYAL WEDDING.

London, March 7.—The Duke of
Edinburgh has brought home his
bride, the Princess Alexandra of
Denmark, having made the passage
from Antwerp in a royal steam yacht.
The weather was rather rough. Her
Imperial Highness is not much of a
sailor, and she was very ill during
the voyage. However, during the passage
of the yacht up the river she quite re-
covered; and by the time Gravesend
was reached she was in excellent
health. Her recent indisposition, save that
her eyes were a little swollen and her
cheeks rather pale. She is not hand-
some, when she smiles she has a
sweet and winning expression, but that is all.
She seems to be an amiable young
lady, and they say that she is very
clever. I do not doubt it, but the en-
thusiasm which has been kindled
upon her beauty by the English cor-
respondents at St. Petersburg are sin-
gularly absurd.

THE ROYAL WEDDING.

London, March 7.—The Duke of
Edinburgh has brought home his
bride, the Princess Alexandra of
Denmark, having made the passage
from Antwerp in a royal steam yacht.
The weather was rather rough. Her
Imperial Highness is not much of a
sailor, and she was very ill during
the voyage. However, during the passage
of the yacht up the river she quite re-
covered; and by the time Gravesend
was reached she was in excellent
health. Her recent indisposition, save that
her eyes were a little swollen and her
cheeks rather pale. She is not hand-
some, when she smiles she has a
sweet and winning expression, but that is all.
She seems to be an amiable young
lady, and they say that she is very
clever. I do not doubt it, but the en-
thusiasm which has been kindled
upon her beauty by the English cor-
respondents at St. Petersburg are sin-
gularly absurd.

THE ROYAL WEDDING.

London, March 7.—The Duke of
Edinburgh has brought home his
bride, the Princess Alexandra of
Denmark, having made the passage
from Antwerp in a royal steam yacht.
The weather was rather rough. Her
Imperial Highness is not much of a
sailor, and she was very ill during
the voyage. However, during the passage
of the yacht up the river she quite re-
covered; and by the time Gravesend
was reached she was in excellent
health. Her recent indisposition, save that
her eyes were a little swollen and her
cheeks rather pale. She is not hand-
some, when she smiles she has a
sweet and winning expression, but that is all.
She seems to be an amiable young
lady, and they say that she is very
clever. I do not doubt it, but the en-
thusiasm which has been kindled
upon her beauty by the English cor-
respondents at St. Petersburg are sin-
gularly absurd.

THE ROYAL WEDDING.

London, March 7.—The Duke of
Edinburgh has brought home his
bride, the Princess Alexandra of
Denmark, having made the passage
from Antwerp in a royal steam yacht.
The weather was rather rough. Her
Imperial Highness is not much of a
sailor, and she was very ill during
the voyage. However, during the passage
of the yacht up the river she quite re-
covered; and by the time Gravesend
was reached she was in excellent
health. Her recent indisposition, save that
her eyes were a little swollen and her
cheeks rather pale. She is not hand-
some, when she smiles she has a
sweet and winning expression, but that is all.
She seems to be an amiable young
lady, and they say that she is very
clever. I do not doubt it, but the en-
thusiasm which has been kindled
upon her beauty by the English cor-
respondents at St. Petersburg are sin-
gularly absurd.

THE ROYAL WEDDING.

London, March 7.—The Duke of
Edinburgh has brought home his
bride, the Princess Alexandra of
Denmark, having made the passage
from Antwerp in a royal steam yacht.
The weather was rather rough. Her
Imperial Highness is not much of a
sailor, and she was very ill during
the voyage. However, during the passage
of the yacht up the river she quite re-
covered; and by the time Gravesend
was reached she was in excellent
health. Her recent indisposition, save that
her eyes were a little swollen and her
cheeks rather pale. She is not hand-
some, when she smiles she has a
sweet and winning expression, but that is all.
She seems to be an amiable young
lady, and they say that she is very
clever. I do not doubt it, but the en-
thusiasm which has been kindled
upon her beauty by the English cor-
respondents at St. Petersburg are sin-
gularly absurd.

THE ROYAL WEDDING.

London, March 7.—The Duke of
Edinburgh has brought home his
bride, the Princess Alexandra of
Denmark, having made the passage
from Antwerp in a royal steam yacht.
The weather was rather rough. Her
Imperial Highness is not much of a
sailor, and she was very ill during
the voyage. However, during the passage
of the yacht up the river she quite re-
covered; and by the time Gravesend
was reached she was in excellent
health. Her recent indisposition, save that
her eyes were a little swollen and her
cheeks rather pale. She is not hand-
some, when she smiles she has a
sweet and winning expression, but that is all.
She seems to be an amiable young
lady, and they say that she is very
clever. I do not doubt it, but the en-
thusiasm which has been kindled
upon her beauty by the English cor-
respondents at St. Petersburg are sin-
gularly absurd.

THE ROYAL WEDDING.

London, March 7.—The Duke of
Edinburgh has brought home his
bride, the Princess Alexandra of
Denmark, having made the passage
from Antwerp in a royal steam yacht.
The weather was rather rough. Her
Imperial Highness is not much of a
sailor, and she was very ill during
the voyage. However, during the passage
of the yacht up the river she quite re-
covered; and by the time Gravesend
was reached she was in excellent
health. Her recent indisposition, save that
her eyes were a little swollen and her
cheeks rather pale. She is not hand-
some, when she smiles she has a
sweet and winning expression, but that is all.
She seems to be an amiable young
lady, and they say that she is very
clever. I do not doubt it, but the en-
thusiasm which has been kindled
upon her beauty by the English cor-
respondents at St. Petersburg are sin-
gularly absurd.

THE ROYAL WEDDING.

London, March 7.—The Duke of
Edinburgh has brought home his
bride, the Princess Alexandra of
Denmark, having made the passage
from Antwerp in a royal steam yacht.
The weather was rather rough. Her
Imperial Highness is not much of a
sailor, and she was very ill during
the voyage. However, during the passage
of the yacht up the river she quite re-
covered; and by the time Gravesend
was reached she was in excellent
health. Her recent indisposition, save that
her eyes were a little swollen and her
cheeks rather pale. She is not hand-
some, when she smiles she has a
sweet and winning expression, but that is all.
She seems to be an amiable young
lady, and they say that she is very
clever. I do not doubt it, but the en-
thusiasm which has been kindled
upon her beauty by the English cor-
respondents at St. Petersburg are sin-
gularly absurd.

THE ROYAL WEDDING.

London, March 7.—The Duke of
Edinburgh has brought home his
bride, the Princess Alexandra of
Denmark, having made the passage
from Antwerp in a royal steam yacht.
The weather was rather rough. Her
Imperial Highness is not much of a
sailor, and she was very ill during
the voyage. However, during the passage
of the yacht up the river she quite re-
covered; and by the time Gravesend
was reached she was in excellent
health. Her recent indisposition, save that
her eyes were a little swollen and her
cheeks rather pale. She is not hand-
some, when she smiles she has a
sweet and winning expression, but that is all.
She seems to be an amiable young
lady, and they say that she is very
clever. I do not doubt it, but the en-
thusiasm which has been kindled
upon her beauty by the English cor-
respondents at St. Petersburg are sin-
gularly absurd.

THE ROYAL WEDDING.

London, March 7.—The Duke of
Edinburgh has brought home his
bride, the Princess Alexandra of
Denmark, having made the passage
from Antwerp in a royal steam yacht.
The weather was rather rough. Her
Imperial Highness is not much of a
sailor, and she was very ill during
the voyage. However, during the passage
of the yacht up the river she quite re-
covered; and by the time Gravesend
was reached she was in excellent
health. Her recent indisposition, save that
her eyes were a little swollen and her
cheeks rather pale. She is not hand-
some, when she smiles she has a
sweet and winning expression, but that is all.
She seems to be an amiable young
lady, and they say that she is very
clever. I do not doubt it, but the en-
thusiasm which has been kindled
upon her beauty by the English cor-
respondents at St. Petersburg are sin-
gularly absurd.

THE ROYAL WEDDING.

London, March 7.—The Duke of
Edinburgh has brought home his
bride, the Princess Alexandra of
Denmark, having made the passage
from Antwerp in a royal steam yacht.
The weather was rather rough. Her
Imperial Highness is not much of a
sailor, and she was very ill during
the voyage. However, during the passage
of the yacht up the river she quite re-
covered; and by the time Gravesend
was reached she was in excellent
health. Her recent indisposition, save that
her eyes were a little swollen and her
cheeks rather pale. She is not hand-
some, when she smiles she has a
sweet and winning expression, but that is all.
She seems to be an amiable young
lady, and they say that she is very
clever. I do not doubt it, but the en-
thusiasm which has been kindled
upon her beauty by the English cor-
respondents at St. Petersburg are sin-
gularly absurd.

THE ROYAL WEDDING.

London, March 7.—The Duke of
Edinburgh has brought home his
bride, the Princess Alexandra of
Denmark, having made the passage
from Antwerp in a royal steam yacht.
The weather was rather rough. Her
Imperial Highness is not much of a
sailor, and she was very ill during
the voyage. However, during the passage
of the yacht up the river she quite re-
covered; and by the time Gravesend
was reached she was in excellent
health. Her recent indisposition, save that
her eyes were a little swollen and her
cheeks rather pale. She is not hand-
some, when she smiles she has a
sweet and winning expression, but that is all.
She seems to be an amiable young
lady, and they say that she is very
clever. I do not doubt it, but the en-
thusiasm which has been kindled
upon her beauty by the English cor-
respondents at St. Petersburg are sin-
gularly absurd.

THE ROYAL WEDDING.

London, March 7.—The Duke of
Edinburgh has brought home his
bride, the Princess Alexandra of
Denmark, having made the passage
from Antwerp in a royal steam yacht.
The weather was rather rough. Her
Imperial Highness is not much of a
sailor, and she was very ill during
the voyage. However, during the passage
of the yacht up the river she quite re-
covered; and by the time Gravesend
was reached she was in excellent
health. Her recent indisposition, save that
her eyes were a little swollen and her
cheeks rather pale. She is not hand-
some, when she smiles she has a
sweet and winning expression, but that is all.
She seems to be an amiable young
lady, and they say that she is very
clever. I do not doubt it, but the en-
thusiasm which has been kindled
upon her beauty by the English cor-
respondents at St. Petersburg are sin-
gularly absurd.

THE ROYAL WEDDING.

London, March 7.—The Duke of
Edinburgh has brought home his
bride, the Princess Alexandra of
Denmark, having made the passage
from Antwerp in a royal steam yacht.
The weather was rather rough. Her
Imperial Highness is not much of a
sailor, and she was very ill during
the voyage. However, during the passage
of the yacht up the river she quite re-
covered; and by the time Gravesend
was reached she was in excellent
health. Her recent indisposition, save that
her eyes were a little swollen and her
cheeks rather pale. She is not hand-
some, when she smiles she has a
sweet and winning expression, but that is all.
She seems to be an amiable young
lady, and they say that she is very
clever. I do not doubt it, but the en-
thusiasm which has been kindled
upon her beauty by the English cor-
respondents at St. Petersburg are sin-
gularly absurd.

THE ROYAL WEDDING.

London, March 7.—The Duke of
Edinburgh has brought home his
bride, the Princess Alexandra of
Denmark, having made the passage
from Antwerp in a royal steam yacht.
The weather was rather rough. Her
Imperial Highness is not much of a
sailor, and she was very ill during
the voyage. However, during the passage
of the yacht up the river she quite re-
covered; and by the time Gravesend
was reached she was in excellent
health. Her recent indisposition, save that
her eyes were a little swollen and her
cheeks rather pale. She is not hand-
some, when she smiles she has a
sweet and winning expression, but that is all.
She seems to be an amiable young
lady, and they say that she is very
clever. I do not doubt it, but the en-
thusiasm which has been kindled
upon her beauty by the English cor-
respondents at St. Petersburg are sin-
gularly absurd.

THE ROYAL WEDDING.

London, March 7.—The Duke of
Edinburgh has brought home his
bride, the Princess Alexandra of
Denmark, having made the passage
from Antwerp in a royal steam yacht.
The weather was rather rough. Her
Imperial Highness is not much of a
sailor, and she was very ill during
the voyage. However, during the passage
of the yacht up the river she quite re-
covered; and by the time Gravesend
was reached she was in excellent
health. Her recent indisposition, save that
her eyes were a little swollen and her
cheeks rather pale. She is not hand-
some, when she smiles she has a
sweet and winning expression, but that is all.
She seems to be an amiable young
lady, and they say that she is very
clever. I do not doubt it, but the en-
thusiasm which has been kindled
upon her beauty by the English cor-
respondents at St. Petersburg are sin-
gularly absurd.

THE ROYAL WEDDING.

London, March 7.—The Duke of
Edinburgh has brought home his
bride, the Princess Alexandra of
Denmark, having made the passage
from Antwerp in a royal steam yacht.
The weather was rather rough. Her
Imperial Highness is not much of a
sailor, and she was very ill during
the voyage. However, during the passage
of the yacht up the river she quite re-
covered; and by the time Gravesend
was reached she was in excellent
health. Her recent indisposition, save that
her eyes were a little swollen and her
cheeks rather pale. She is not hand-
some, when she smiles she has a
sweet and winning expression, but that is all.
She seems to be an amiable young
lady, and they say that she is very
clever. I do not doubt it, but the en-
thusiasm which has been kindled
upon her beauty by the English cor-
respondents at St. Petersburg are sin-
gularly absurd.

THE ROYAL WEDDING.

London, March 7.—The Duke of
Edinburgh has brought home his
bride, the Princess Alexandra of
Denmark, having made the passage
from Antwerp in a royal steam yacht.
The weather was rather rough. Her
Imperial Highness is not much of a
sailor, and she was very ill during
the voyage. However, during the passage
of the yacht up the river she quite re-
covered; and by the time Gravesend
was reached she was in excellent
health. Her recent indisposition, save that
her eyes were a little swollen and her
cheeks rather pale. She is not hand-
some, when she smiles she has a
sweet and winning expression, but that is all.
She seems to be an amiable young
lady, and they say that she is very
clever. I do not doubt it, but the en-
thusiasm which has been kindled
upon her beauty by the English cor-
respondents at St. Petersburg are sin-
gularly absurd.

THE ROYAL WEDDING.

London, March 7.—The Duke of
Edinburgh has brought home his
bride, the Princess Alexandra of
Denmark, having made the passage
from Antwerp in a royal steam yacht.
The weather was rather rough. Her
Imperial Highness is not much of a
sailor, and she was very ill during
the voyage. However, during the passage
of the yacht up the river she quite re-
covered; and by the time Gravesend
was reached she was in excellent
health. Her recent indisposition, save that
her eyes were a little swollen and her
cheeks rather pale. She is not hand-
some, when she smiles she has a
sweet and winning expression, but that is all.
She seems to be an amiable young
lady, and they say that she is very
clever. I do not doubt it, but the en-
thusiasm which has been kindled
upon her beauty by the English cor-
respondents at St. Petersburg are sin-
gularly absurd.

THE ROYAL WEDDING.

London, March 7.—The Duke of
Edinburgh has brought home his
bride, the Princess Alexandra of
Denmark, having made the passage
from Antwerp in a royal steam yacht.
The weather was rather rough. Her
Imperial Highness is not much of a
sailor, and she was very ill during
the voyage. However, during the passage
of the yacht up the river she quite re-
covered; and by the time Gravesend
was reached she was in excellent
health. Her recent indisposition, save that
her eyes were a little swollen and her
cheeks rather pale. She is not hand-
some, when she smiles she has a
sweet and winning expression, but that is all.
She seems to be an amiable young
lady, and they say that she is very
clever. I do not doubt it, but the en-
thusiasm which has been kindled
upon her beauty by the English cor-
respondents at St. Petersburg are sin-
gularly absurd.

THE ROYAL WEDDING.

London, March 7.—The Duke of
Edinburgh has brought home his
bride, the Princess Alexandra of
Denmark, having made the passage
from Antwerp in a royal steam yacht.
The weather was rather rough. Her
Imperial Highness is not much of a
sailor, and she was very ill during
the voyage. However, during the passage
of the yacht up the river she quite re-
covered; and by the time Gravesend
was reached she was in excellent
health. Her recent indisposition, save that
her eyes were a little swollen and her
cheeks rather pale. She is not hand-
some, when she smiles she has a
sweet and winning expression, but that is all.
She seems to be an amiable young
lady, and they say that she is very
clever. I do not doubt it, but the en-
thusiasm which has been kindled
upon her beauty by the English cor-
respondents at St. Petersburg are sin-
gularly absurd.

THE ROYAL WEDDING.

London, March 7.—The Duke of
Edinburgh has brought home his
bride, the Princess Alexandra of
Denmark, having made the passage
from Antwerp in a royal steam yacht.
The weather was rather rough. Her
Imperial Highness is not much of a
sailor, and she was very ill during
the voyage. However, during the passage
of the yacht up the river she quite re-
covered; and by the time Gravesend
was reached she was in excellent
health. Her recent indisposition, save that
her eyes were a little swollen and her
cheeks rather pale. She is not hand-
some, when she smiles she has a
sweet and winning expression, but that is all.
She seems to be an amiable young
lady, and they say that she is very
clever. I do not doubt it, but the en-
thusiasm which has been kindled
upon her beauty by the English cor-
respondents at St. Petersburg are sin-
gularly absurd.

THE ROYAL WEDDING.

London, March 7.—The Duke of
Edinburgh has brought home his
bride, the Princess Alexandra of
Denmark, having made the passage
from Antwerp in a royal steam yacht.
The weather was rather rough. Her
Imperial Highness is not much of a
sailor, and she was very ill during
the voyage. However, during the passage
of the yacht up the river she quite re-
covered; and by the time Gravesend
was reached she was in excellent
health. Her recent indisposition, save that
her eyes were a little swollen and her
cheeks rather pale. She is not hand-
some, when she smiles she has a
sweet and winning expression, but that is all.
She seems to be an amiable young
lady, and they say that she is very
clever. I do not doubt it, but the en-
thusiasm which has been kindled
upon her beauty by the English cor-
respondents at St. Petersburg are sin-
gularly absurd.

THE ROYAL WEDDING.

London, March 7.—The Duke of
Edinburgh has brought home his
bride, the Princess Alexandra of
Denmark, having made the passage
from Antwerp in a royal steam yacht.
The weather was rather rough. Her
Imperial Highness is not much of a
sailor, and she was very ill during
the voyage. However, during the passage
of the yacht up the river she quite re-
covered; and by the time Gravesend
was reached she was in excellent
health. Her recent indisposition, save that
her eyes were a little swollen and her
cheeks rather pale. She is not hand-
some, when she smiles she has a
sweet and winning expression, but that is all.
She seems to be an amiable young
lady, and they say that she is very
clever. I do not doubt it, but the en-
thusiasm which has been kindled
upon her beauty by the English cor-
respondents at St. Petersburg are sin-
gularly absurd.

THE ROYAL WEDDING.

London, March 7.—The Duke of
Edinburgh has brought home his
bride, the Princess Alexandra of
Denmark, having made the passage
from Antwerp in a royal steam yacht.
The weather was rather rough. Her
Imperial Highness is not much of a
sailor, and she was very ill during
the voyage. However, during the passage
of the yacht up the river she quite re-
covered; and by the time Gravesend
was reached she was in excellent
health. Her recent indisposition, save that
her eyes were a little swollen and her
cheeks rather pale. She is not hand-
some, when she smiles she has a
sweet and winning expression, but that is all.
She seems to be an amiable young
lady, and they say that she is very
clever. I do not doubt it, but the en-
thusiasm which has been kindled
upon her beauty by the English cor-
respondents at St. Petersburg are sin-
gularly absurd.

WASHINGTON HOUSE

CHURCH STREET,
Lynchburg, Virginia.
NOTICE.
FROM THE DATE L. W. SCOVILLE, Manager of the Washington House, has been removed to the Palmer in the business of said House. The business will be conducted under the style and firm of
L. W. Scoville & Co.
L. W. Scoville & Co.
Washington House, Lynchburg, Va.
May 2, 1874.

J. C. BURROW

DEALER IN Engravings, Books, Stationery,
AND
Miscellaneous Publications
No 110 W. Baltimore Street, (Opposite Sun Iron Building)
BALTIMORE, MD.
Orders promptly attended to.

Eclectic Magazine

OF
Foreign Literature, Science, and Art.
1874.
(THIRTIETH YEAR.)
Science.
This department, the ECLECTIC gives a space to no other magazine. It is not only a source of information, but presents from month to month a complete digest of the most important scientific discoveries and inventions, but patterns from the whole field of scientific literature, the best articles of the most authoritative thinkers, and writers of French, German, Italian, and English, and a full and complete digest of the most important scientific discoveries and inventions of the month.

Literature.

The ECLECTIC also finds room for an array of literary criticism, and a full and complete digest of the most important literary
discoveries and inventions, but patterns from the whole field of literary literature, the best articles of the most authoritative thinkers,
and writers of French, German, Italian, and English, and